Dilce Combs Students Will Stage Folk Drama At College Festival

Two famous, professional singers may be in danger of getting "upstaged" by amateurs at the Southeast Community College's Kingdom Come Swappin Meetin in Cumberland, October 16-18.

The large crowds anticipated for the weekend-long folk-art festival will likely turn out primarily to see and hear folk singers Jean Ritchie and Billy Edd Wheeler.

But on stage with the professionals will be several non-professional but highly-talented groups and individuals.

Combs Students
Among them will be Leonard Roberts, telling folktales from his collection, many of which have been published in a volume titled "South From Hell Fer Sartin". The Berea College Country Dancers plus student drama groups from Dilce Combs High School in Perry County and the Southeast Community College.

"Bound For Shady Grove" is the title of a folk-play the Dilce Combs students will present, directed by Jean Ritchie's sister, Edna. The short play will follow an interlude of folk dancing on the College lawn at 7:30 p. m., October 16 to kickoff the Swappin Meetin.

Another folk play, "The Clod", will be presented Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. by the College Players, directed by Mary Ellen Moran.

The Berea Country Dancers, a Berea College student group that has been active since 1938, will entertain with renditions of Appalachian, New England and English folk dances at the Saturday evening session of the Swappin Meetin. But dancing will be only part of the entertainment by the versatile Berea Group. Some will sing ballads to the accompaniment of an old mountain string instrument, the dulcimer.

Berea Dancers
It is this kind of versatility that has won for the Berea Country Dancers a wide reputation outside Kentucky. The Dancers have performed for audiences all across the United States. In 1962 they toured nine Central and South American nations for the State Department. In April, 1963, they performed on the White House lawn and this year appeared at the World's Fair in New York.

Admission to all sessions of the Swappin Meetin are free to holders of concert series tickets, and to all school children. Admission to the Jean Ritchie and Billy Edd Wheeler concerts will be $1.00 each, payable at the door.

Here is the schedule for all Swappin Meetin events:
Friday, October 16, 6 p. m.:

Saturday Schedule
Saturday, October 17, 1:30 p. m.: Folk Tales by Leonard Roberts; 2:00 p. m.: Folk Play, "The Clod"; 3:00 p. m.: Jean Ritchie concert; 6:15 p. m.: Folk dancing, The Berea Country Dancers; 8 p. m.: Billy Edd Wheeler Concert.

Sunday, October 18, 2:30 p. m.: Hymn Singing, Southeast Community College Lobby, led by Frankie Duff and Edna Ritchie.

Exhibits related to the festival will be on display at the College. They include arts, and crafts, a museum, photographs, slides of mountain life and a movie about Kentucky mountain music, "The High Lonesome Sound".

Coal Operators Will Celebrate "Greatest Year"

The Kentucky coal-mining industry's greatest year of production since 1950 will be celebrated October 16 at the 18th annual meeting of the Kentucky Coal Association in Lexington.

Two leading figures of the industry with Hazard connections will have major roles in the meeting. William B. Sturgill, president of Kentucky River Coal Sales, Inc., of Hazard, is chairman of the KCA board of directors. Fred B. Bullard of Lexington, President of WKIC in Hazard and former publisher of the Hazard Herald, is president of KCA.

The Kentucky Coal Association, announcing plans for its meeting, reported that in 1963 Kentucky mines produced 78,139,040 tons of coal.

This coal had a value of $350 million, and the tonnage was the fourth largest in the Commonwealth's history. The record was 88,895,327 tons in 1947. The 1963 output was topped last in 1950, when 12,176,693 tons were mined.

The 1963 production by districts was: Harlan, 6,153,693 tons; Hazard, 11,538,664; Manchester, 4,409,844; Martin, 5,361,000; Pikeville, 14,937,226; and West Kentucky, 35,718,613.

Bullard said that mine owners and executives from most of Kentucky's 43 coal-producing counties are expected to attend a one-day session in the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington. An attendance of 200 persons is expected. National leaders in the coal industry and officials of the Kentucky state Department of Mines and Minerals, Natural Resources, and Revenue will speak at the meeting and work with the coal producers in appraising their progress and planning for the future.

The progress of the Kentucky industry, which is the second largest bituminous coal producer in the nation, is indicated by the increase of more than 8,089,000 tons in the last year," Bullard said. "Employment also increased, and at the end of last year 20,717 persons were working in the mines."

Sturgill said "this progress brings on added responsibilities, which will be considered along with other problems at our meeting."

Other topics at the meeting will be: the projected effort of atomic power on future uses of coal; what Sturgill described as "the unfair competition of imported residual oil" progress in stripmining reclamation in Kentucky and the nation; and an appraisal of the coal industry's public image.

Speakers will include Joseph E. Moody of Washington, president of the National Coal Policy Conference; Robert E. Lee Hall of Washington vice president of the National Coal Association; A. H. Alndt, State owner of Mines and Minerals; James E. Lockett, State Chairman of Revenue; Robert K. Montgomery, Deputy State Commissioner of Natural Resources; S. C. Van Curen, editor of the Frankfort State Journal.

Charles Bradshaw, University of Kentucky football coach, will speak at the luncheon.

Following the business sessions which begin at 10 A. M. (EST), the L. & N. Railroad will be host at a social hour at 6 P. M. There will be a banquet at 7 P. M.

1400 Attend UKREA's 46th Annual Session Held Thursday-Friday

Kendall Boggs, Whitesburg, Elected President; Dwight Hendrix, Hyden, President Elect

Over 1,400 teachers attended the 46th Annual Session of the Upper Kentucky River Education Association (U.K.R.E.A.) held Thursday and Friday, October 8-9, at the Memorial Gymnasium and Hazard High School Building, in Hazard. These teachers represented the seven counties in the Association—Breathitt, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Owsley, Perry, and Wolfe.

Officers for Year
New officers were elected for the coming year: President, Kendall Boggs, Whitesburg; President Elect, Dwight Hendrix, Hyden; Vice President, Frank Rose, Campion; NEA Delegates, Troy Fields, Perry County, and Charles Combs, Breathitt County; NEA Alternates, Vernon Campbell, Letcher County, and Kermit Eversole, Knott County.

First Session
The first general session of U.K.R.E.A. was held on Thursday morning. Included in the program was music, a devotion, a welcome, folk dancing, and several addresses. The session was opened with organ music with Mrs. Rice Kirby, Hazard High School, at the console. The devotion was led by Rev. Leslie M. Rogers, Pastor of the Bowman Memorial Methodist Church of Hazard.

Vernon Cooper, on behalf of Mayor William C. Dawahare gave the following address and Wm. Gorman, also on behalf of the Mayor, presented keys to the City to Dennis Wootton, President of U.K.R.E.A. and R. G. Eversole, Secretary-Treasurer of U.K.R.E.A.

Dennis Wootton, President of U.K.R.E.A., gave the "President's Address"; Roger Jones, President of K.E.A., gave an address on "Professionalism." His address was followed by a thirty minute presentation of music and folk dancing by a group from the Hindman Settlement School.

The major address of this session was given by Dr. H. Gerthson Morgan, Director, Institute of Child Study, University of Maryland. Following are some excerpts from his address that give a gist of what he had to say to the some fourteen hundred educators in attendance.

"The knowledge of how to work with children creatively is at hand—we do not have to wait for a breakthrough. If teachers were willing to use what we now know about human growth and development, the schools would be revolutionized overnight."

"We assume falsely that the child learns primarily because someone does something to him from the outside. We spend our time here. We are unwilling or unable to recognize the fact that learning is creative and individual. That learning is the most natural thing in the world. All human beings are going to learn what they need to know. Learning is going to occur whether we like it or not, and the kind of learning that a child gets is dependent upon the school."

"Human beings want to learn. Every child says, 'here I am; but he also says, 'what you have to offer to me must be related to me'. We must listen to children to find out what they want to learn."

Thursday Session
The Thursday afternoon session was composed of six assemblies in which discussions were held on local and state education associations.

On Thursday evening the Schoolmasters Club banquet was held in the cafeteria of the Roy G. Eversole School. This is an annual affair that is sponsored by the Hazard Civic Clubs. Watson Webb, president of the club acted as toastmaster. The invocation was given by Dennis Wootton, Superintendent of Perry County Schools. The welcome was given by A. R. Barber of the Hazard Lions Club and the response was made by Eldon Davidson, Principal of the Jenkins High School. Music was furnished by Miss Glenna Kaye Hurt of the M. C. Napier High School.

Dr. Morgan's Address

The address of the evening was given by Dr. H. Gerthson Morgan. Following excerpts from his address will give the gist of what he had to say to this group:

"People today are more inadequate than they were in 1776 because the people of 1776 knew where they were going."

"Fifty per cent of the people of the world today do not have a chance of becoming what a human being can be. We must find ways of settling our differences in other ways than force."

—we are not equipped to use these other ways."

"People today are inadequate because they are not quite sure of their leadership at local, state or national levels. They are not sure where religion fits in to our culture."

"Feeling inadequate, people of today do not know where to place responsibility for our predicament. They can not place responsibility upon the home because that would be placing it upon themselves. They can not place it upon the community because community is hard to define. They cannot place it upon the church because, again, the church is themselves. So they put the blame on the schools since there is one conveniently located in every community. They expect the schools to do something about it."

"On the other hand, the schools are trying to do what a school people want them to do instead of doing what they know they should do. The schools through use of I. Q. and achievement tests are trying to find the gifted so that they can be segregated and taught as a different group. Grouping with this small amount of information leads to a setting up of a caste system that is worse than a caste system based on skin color."

Hazard Merchants Concerned About Increase In Shoplifting

In a recent survey conducted by the Kentucky Retail Federation, shoplifting is increasing, especially among "teenagers". Hazard merchants are greatly concerned partly because of the financial loss, but mainly because this indicates moral deterioration in society.

John Jett, Executive Vice President of the Kentucky Retail Federation, suggests that parents should question their children carefully when they come home with something new, especially if they can't account for their spending money. Examination of a number of cases shows that the teenager tells his parents that he found the item, traded for it, or it was given to him by a friend.

In many instances, if a parent will question the child, they will find that this is not correct. Jett went on to say that all parents know that the child and acceptance of the child by society are acquired to a child before he is twenty-one, and if the child learns at an early age that he may ignore customs and morals of society without punishment or embarrassment this same attitude will probably continue in later life.

Everyone in Kentucky has a responsibility and privilege of helping our youth to grow into good citizens. They are our greatest asset and treasure.

Free Medical Tests Given Pre-Schoolers

Thousands of pre-school children and adults in 18 Appalachia counties of Eastern Kentucky are getting free medical examinations in a $372,000 Federal Government project in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Health.

"These 18 counties were selected because they were the most distressed in the Appalachia area," according to Dr. Russell E. Teague, State health commissioner and project director.

This effort, officially tagged "Demonstration of Raising Health Levels in a Deprived Region," is believed to be unique in the nation. Planned by the late President John F. Kennedy, it was made possible by special funds appropriated as a U. S. Public Health Service grant after Lyndon B. Johnson became president.

The counties are Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Floyd, Harlan, Jackson, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Martin, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Whitely, and Wolfe. After the project began in March, Rowan County, not in the depressed area, has been added. The entire work is to be completed by January 15, 1965.

Through the first half of the project, 3,612 children and 2,178 adults had been tested, according to Dr. Stephen G. Edelstein. He is a heart disease control officer on loan to Kentucky from the U. S. Public Health Service and the project's medical coordinator.

Evan J. Ray, assistant director of the State Health Department's Division of Community Health Services, is the administrative coordinator.

Eastern Kentuckians are being screened at the average of 80 children and 40 adults a day, Dr. Edelstein reported. The tests require an average of two hours for each person.

"Of the first 6,000 we've examined," he said, "an average of 20 per cent of the children and 30 per cent of the adults were found to have abnormalities which should be checked further by a doctor." The totals run up to 44 per cent in some communities for adults and up to 30 per cent for children.

"Our immediate aim," Dr. Edelstein pointed out, "is to test pre-schoolers to determine their health pattern in an entire community. The health problems of children reflect their whole families' situations and also can be used as one index to plan for a community's future health program."

"Most of those we examine are the pre-schoolers. And we are seeing about 80 per cent of the children born in 1958."

"A smaller group of adults screened is decided by each community. Then there is a still smaller group referred by physicians for specific tests."

Approval of county organizations—the health department, school board, medical and dental societies—is necessary before the project can start in a community.

Dr. Edelstein detailed a typical example of teamwork in the current project: Samples of blood from the screening center are put on a bus to the State Health Department laboratories in Frankfort. Here, the samples are processed to separate the blood serum from the cells.

Three specimens of each person's sample are frozen and filed for reference. A serology

High Schools Must Improve Or Lose Accreditation and Financial Support

About 45 Kentucky high schools ranked either as "emergency" or "temporary emergency" must improve their programs this school year or lose their accreditation and thereby financial support.

Warnings will be sent to these high schools, the State Board of Education voted at its recent meeting here. The ruling applies both to public and private high schools, according to Dr. Harry M. Sparks, State Superintendent of public instruction.

An "emergency school" is one offering 18 to 24 subjects, Dr. Sparks explained. A "temporary emergency school" is one offering fewer than 18 subjects. Public high schools that lose their accreditation would be ineligible for State Minimum Foundation Program funds. Private high schools would lose only their accreditation.

The State Board meets each spring to accredit every school in Kentucky. The warning to be sent out says that unless the districts show definite improvement during the current school year, "accreditation will be withdrawn during the 1965-66 school year."

Don C. Bale, assistant State superintendent in charge of instruction, urged the State Board not to take a blanket action against low-ranked schools. He suggested that each case be considered individually.

Board members indicated they would study each emergency or temporary emergency school carefully to determine if program improvement has been made.

ner as having said that if we listen to the man-on-the-street or specialists in other areas, we will destroy every mental health concept that has been built up.

He said that we have segmented education today. That mathematics and science have been given a very high place while other subjects have been played down in importance, thus failing to produce human beings who can live together and take care of their needs.

"In terms of basic learning of children, none of the new innovation make a difference, the reason being that none of these things affect the things that are being in education which things are (1) the humanness of the teacher and (2) humanness of the learner and the ability of these children to adjust."

"If we want to improve education, we must improve ourselves—the better we become as human beings, the better our educational system. The heart of education is the moment to moment decisions between teachers and pupils."

"In terms of the inadequacy of our culture, we need to concentrate on ourselves, to develop the capacity to see and listen to children so that we will know what kind of decisions to make."

At the business session, the following officers officers were elected for the coming year to head the Schoolmasters Club: President, Elden Davidson of Jenkins; vice-president, Leonard Morgan of Whitesburg; Secretary, Cynthia B. McIntyre of Hazard; and Treasurer, Vesper Singleton of Hindman.

At the second general session on Friday morning, the devotion was led by Rev. J. S. Bell of the Hindman Baptist Church and music was furnished by the M. C. Napier High School. The address of the morning was given by Dr. Robert R. Martin, President of Eastern Kentucky State College. Following this general session, the participants spent the rest of the morning in some twenty-four special interest group meetings.

Yellow Football Mums To Be Used In Experiment At University of Ky.

The beauty of 1,000 yellow football mums which bloom in a greenhouse at the University of Kentucky is ironic when one learns that the flowers are due to be ground into a powdery dust.

Dr. Jan W. Abernathie, assistant professor of horticulture at the University of Kentucky, is supervising the project which is designed to see how and why some mums last longer than others after they are cut. This particular experiment is part of a doctoral candidate's research.

The University Department of Horticulture also has four students working on projects for master's degrees. Dr. Abernathie stated that the projects are designed to fit the study needs of the students.

For example, an Indonesian graduate student, Avief Mansjur, is a tea grower at home. The University has no real interest in tea, as much, however, the camellia is closely related to tea. Mansjur is studying why the camellia roots and later can transfer this knowledge to his study of the tea plant.

Another Indonesian student is a cabbage grower. Dr. Abernathie has found that cabbages and cymbidians orchids are related. By discovering why cymbidians bloom, the student may discover why cabbage blooms.

Why would anyone want to know why orchids bloom? Dr. Abernathie says in this hemisphere the orchid only blooms in the spring. Orchids bought during the fall and winter must be shipped in from Australia which has opposite climatic conditions. By discovering why orchids bloom, one may learn how to make them bloom all year round and thus increase the market on orchids.

Why not work on dandelions and try to cultivate them? Because the American people are very particular about the plants and trees they display, Dr. Abernathie answers.

Council To Enter Federal Contract

Which Benefits Appalachian Residents

Dr. Paul Spray of Oak Ridge, Tenn., Chairman of the Health Committee of the Council of the Southern Mountains, Inc., Berea, announced today that the Council will enter a Federal contract which will benefit many residents of the Appalachian South.

According to Dr. Spray, this contract will enable the Council to act as a sponsoring agent for recruitment of substantial members of healthy residents in the Appalachian area to participate in research programs of the National Institutes of Health, principal research bureau of the U. S. Public Health Service, in Bethesda, Maryland.

Establishment of the contract is the result of a conference held in Beverly, Ky., September 25, between members of the Health Committee of the Council of the Southern Mountains and officials of the National Institutes of Health. The Rev. Philip H. Young of Hazard, Ky., and Mr. William Suters, Health Educator of the Council, were instrumental in bringing the idea of the program to the Council.

In order to move ahead in the conquest of diseases, Dr. Spray explained, scientific investigators need to make careful studies of healthy people so that they can better understand how the body or the mind goes wrong in a sick person. Thus the Clinical Center, the research hospital of the National Institutes of Health, houses not only sick people, but also healthy individuals who volunteer to be studied by staff physicians. More healthy "patients" are needed; and Appalachian area residents can help meet this need through a mutually profitable agreement with NIH. This kind of volunteer program is already working out very well in several other communities. The healthy people of the Southern Mountains who are selected under the new contract will go to the Center for about a three-month stay.

Benefits for volunteers will be: Transportation to and from the Clinical Center; room, board, laundry, dry cleaning, hospital clothes, health care and daily essentials while there. In addition, the Health Committee of the Council—which will be reimbursed by the Clinical Center—will pay every volunteer for each day spent at the Center.

For people out of work or between jobs, the program will be particularly valuable. NIH offers job-training opportunities to volunteers while they are at the Clinical Center. Also, many work opportunities will be available at or near the Center since volunteers will have a sizeable amount of off-duty time.

During the planning conference held at the Red Bird Mission in Beverly, Dr. Clifton K. Himmelsbach, Associate Director of the Clinical Center, outlined the NIH proposal to Dr. Paul Spray, a group of other doctors, county health nurses, and representatives of ancillary medical agencies throughout the nine-state area who are members of the Health Committee and Mr. Suters. Although the Council is the only organization under direct contract with NIH, the support of other resourceful community groups is sought.

The program is entirely voluntary, with selection of volunteers made on the basis of a medical examination. Anyone interested in participating may gain further information by calling, writing or visiting Mr. Suters at the Council of the Southern Mountains, in Berea, Kentucky.

War On Poverty

Dr. John Leonard Fulmer, new director of the University of Kentucky's Bureau of Business Research, has listed a dozen bureau projects that are concerned primarily with President Lyndon B. Johnson's "war on poverty." Research proposals are being prepared for the Area Redevelopment Administration and other agencies, including those created by the Economic Opportunity Act.

Among the various projects underway is Dr. Fulmer's work on a manuscript called "County Population Trends Reflect Job Changes." The director said that "a mathematical model of Eastern Kentucky's economy has been set up and the bureau can take a monetary figure—such as the amount to be spent building a new highway in the area—and quite accurately indicate just what the impact will be on the region's economy." Dr. Fulmer succeeds Professor James W. Martin as director.

8,000 Acre Tract in National Forest Set Aside For Nimrods of Ancient Ways

The further man advances technically, the more he seems to be fascinated by things of the past. Witness the collectors of antiques, men who make guns by hand, revivers of ancient weaving methods, practitioners of folk medicine, hand-potters and dozens of other crafts.

For the benefit of Nimrods who favor the ancient ways, Kentucky's Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has teamed up with the U. S. Forest Service and set aside an 8,000-acre tract in Cumberland National Forest as a primitive weapons area.

This part of the forest, in Bath and Menifee counties, may be hunted only with "primitive weapons." These are defined as longbows, crossbows, muzzle-loading rifles and muzzle-loading shotguns. (They don't mention blowguns, slingshots or spears, in case you're wondering.) This unique arrangement is located in an ideal environment where the hills of this huge and beautiful forest are heavily timbered.

Apart from the restriction on the use of weapons there is no change in the prevailing game laws. Open season on squirrels began August 29, doves on September 1, rabbits and quail will be fair game November 19 and ruffed grouse December 1.

Kentucky's deer season begins with 34 days of archery hunting, October 15-November 15, in which crossbows as well as longbows may be used in the "primitive" area. Crossbows are illegal hunting weapons outside the area. November 25-29 inclusively, the primitive hunters may use their muzzle loaders. Those are the governing dates for deer hunting outside the primitive area by those using conventional weapons.

A Kentucky hunting license costs $3.25 for residents, $15.50 for non-residents. A deer permit costs an extra $10.50 for every body.

Mrs. Rephena Allen Hosts Stanley Party October 1

By Elsie Noble

Mr. and Mrs. Lane Combs, of Indiana, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Holiday, over the weekend.

Ilan Napier and a few other men have started building a bridge at Frances Branch this week. It will be real good if they get it finished before the bad weather sets in. The school children miss quite a bit of school each winter because it gets so bad for them to go around the chift, but, of course, the bridge will solve their problem.

Mr. Adam Noble, Mr. Corbett Napier and Mr. Marvel Allen spent the weekend in Hazard on business.

Your writer was the Tuesday guest of Mrs. J. D. Morris, of Grapevine. Mrs. Morris was very sick over the weekend but is feeling better today.

Mr. Larkin Holiday has returned home from the Homeplace Hospital where he was recuperating after a light heart attack.

Mr. Elige Noble, of Grapevine, was in Rowdy Wednesday to buy stock. Mr. Noble has been in business for several years.

Mr. Bob Campbell and his son, Hubert, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keen Noble Wednesday.

Mrs. Glenna Harvey made a flying trip from Lexington to Combs, Mrs. Callie Noble, Mrs. Rowdy and back Wednesday. Mrs. Rephena Allen gave a Stanley Party Thursday, October 1, at her home. Twenty-one customers attended the party. They were: Mrs. Sarah Napier, Mrs. Southwood, Mrs. Gurney the guests by the hosts.

All Right...Let Us Judge CATHOLICS BY THE BIBLE!

Many sincere people regard the Bible as the sole authority for Christian belief.

And they reject the teachings of the age-old Catholic Church because these teachings and forms of Catholic worship are not mentioned by name in Holy Scripture.

"Where"...some will ask, "does the Bible say anything about the Mass or Purgatory? And how about Confession to a priest, praying to Mary, and those seven Sacraments you Catholics talk about? They're not in MY Bible!"

Although everything contained in the Bible is true, yet the Bible is not the sole source of all truth. For example, we know that Christ established His Church...that the Church existed long before the Bible was completed...that millions lived and died in the Savior's truth without ever having seen a Bible.

But we are willing to set aside these historical truths for the moment and judge Catholic beliefs and practices by the Bible.

Take first, for instance, the fact that the Bible does not mention the Mass or Purgatory by name. Well, neither does it mention the word Bible by name. Furthermore, nowhere within its covers is it stated what are the writings which contain the inspired Word of God. The only authority you have for this is the word of the Catholic Church, which preserved and collected the Scriptural writings and put them between the covers of a book.

The word "Sacrament," meaning a sacred rite, is not used anywhere in the Bible. But Holy Scripture does make clear the sacredness of such Catholic rites as Baptism, Confirmation, the Eucharist, Matrimony, Penance, the Last Anointing, and Holy Orders, the latter rite being the deputizing of the successors to the Apostles.

The Sacraments were in possession of the Church and in daily use before a single line of the New Testament was written. People were being received into the Church by Baptism long before there was a New Testament. They were receiving Confirmation, were being married according to Christ's teaching, and praying over and anointing the dangerously sick.

Christ definitely did establish His Church. He did deputize His Apostles, and their successors, to continue His teaching. He did promise that His Church would endure forever, and could not fall into error. But He never did say: "All My teachings shall be in a book. Read and believe nothing else."

An interesting pamphlet explaining the Catholic teaching concerning such things as the Sacraments, Purgatory, why Catholics do not eat meat on Friday, why we call it Catholic Church instead of "Roman" Catholic, will be sent immediately on your request and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-28.

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of concrete highway!

That totals approximately 700,000 tons of coal if Kentucky uses concrete to complete its Interstate Highways. Kentucky needs new coal markets, new highways. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Today's new-type concrete is smooth and solid all the way...is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the Federal Government pays 90% of initial construction cost—but not a single cent for maintenance. Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Fred Bullard, President of the Kentucky Coal Association, says: "Concrete and reinforcing steel are two basic ingredients of the modern concrete highway. With their high consumption of coal during manufacture, we believe that paving Kentucky's Interstate Highways with concrete would be an invaluable aid to the state's coal industry."
